Kester flux 186 datasheet.

100 Resin flow is developed for use in chistic applications, where diffency sets should be added, but process requirements stipulate the use of RMA -type flow. Subscribe to Kester 186, under Mil-F-14256, was approved by QPL as type RMA. Low SCIENDS AND THE ACTIVATOR SYSTEM results in low waste left in the assembly after welding. The use of a former of joining activating agents and the inactive nature of the resumption allows to leave the residue in the circuit plate sets for many applications. Ideal for assembling solder guides and mounting rework in the superhype as it can provide flow to an specific area. NOTE: This product can not be sent internationally-registered by the supply of CML, which is not affiliated or endorsed by Kester or Illinois Tool Works2-Once (59ml) bottle with distribution tip. The tip of distribution allows the work in very confined spaces. There is no degradation of resistance to the isolation of the surface caused by the flow of flow. Kester 186 Flux displays better welding performance to minimize welding bridges during rework operations. Exclusive tool to rework and slow the welding. Kester 186 is an organce flow to resin base that is designed specifically for rework of conventional circuit and superficial assembly sets. This flow has high stability timal for sets of solder layers that require a high prohibition temperature. Although the flow capacity approaches the flow of Ra of the type, the flow residue is the weld is corrosive and not-conductor. No waste to interfere with the tests. - Exposure at high temperatures of prize in the so -called solubility of the residue in normal cleaning solvents. For use by experienced electronics assume all the risk of application. Any guarantee is limited to the replacement or reimbursement of the product. In addition, use safety when working with welding equipment and materials, in addition to using adequate ventilation when working with welding equipment and breataking materials of materials emitted during welding. Flow fumes can cause irritation or damage pulmonary. This product, during handling or use, can be dangerous to your health or the environment. Some warnings and precautions: For industrial use, we can only offer advice on an specific application. Would you like to subscribe to offers, discounts and other important updates to SIS? Flow residue also resistant to moisture and fungi. It allows the controlled flow of flow, eliminating the mess of larger bottles. Read the Kester Security Datasheet (SDS) and the warning chapter before using this product. products.
