Big Thanks for all the help - been using your tips for a few years when stuck Hello, I hate to say this, but folders also stopped showing thumbnails in the latest version of Windows 10 as well. Your files should show thumbnails though. This is outrageous, thumbnail previews are used by so many people. Microsoft just took them away and said to bad for you shmuck! Oh well, maybe somebody will design some 3rd party software for a solution. I have 18 years of photography sitting on drives stored in one of my closets, those previews are valuable. When I'm walking over the Internet I really see a lot of people who really can't understand why Microsoft throw the using of folder thumbnails away. Really a lot of people do use this including myself, I do have, I think 10.000 digitalled Musicalbums (maybe more) , every Album was put in a folder and on the outside of this folder I could see which album is in it (Album picture tells you what kind of album is in the folder. And that's the same thing for my movie and videofolders, on the outside you can see whats in it by using the filmposter. Also the same thing for all my Strip comic books and for all my reading books. I've tried something like this in a command prompt: explorer c: d: I was hoping this would open a window with the first tab being the root of the C drive & the second tab being the root of the D drive. But it just doesn't do that. It seems like explorer accepts only a single argument, & it will open a window with a single tab showing the directory you specify in the argument. With multiple arguments, it does not open a tab for each argument, but rather always opens on the Documents directory as the only tab. Of weird that it doesn't at least open a single tab on the first argument you specify. I don't follow the logic behind opening Documents. If supplying multiple arguments like my example above is not the right way to do this, then what is? I know well-meaning folks sometimes come up with fancy Power Shell scripts. That's not what I want. I want something simple & intuitive that will work in a regular command prompt. This tutorial will show you how to add Devices and Printers to This PC in File Explorer for your account or all users in Windows 10 and Windows 11. If added, Devices and Printers will appear under the "Devices and drives" group in This PC in File Explorer. The Devices and Printers folder shows devices that are connected to a computer, including the document devices. When you select a device in Devices and Printers, Device Stage shows the details for that device. Option One: Add or Remove Devices and Printers to This PC in File Explorer for Current User Only A) Click/tap on the Download button below to download the file below, and go to step 3 (add) or step 3 (remove) below for what you want. 2. Add Devices and Printers to This PC in File Explorer for Current User Only Option Two: Add or Remove Devices and Printers to This PC in File Explorer for All Users EXAMPLE: Devices and Printers added to This PC in File Explorer 1 Do step 2 (add) or step 3 (remove) below for what you want. 2. Add Devices and Printers to This PC in File Explorer for Current User Only A) Click/tap on the Download button below to download the file below, and go to step 4 below. Add_Devices_and_Printers_to_This_PC_in_File_Explorer_current_user.reg (Contents of REG file for reference) Windows Registry Editor Version 5.00 [HKEY_CURRENT_USER\Software\Microsoft\Windows\CurrentVersion\Explorer\MyComputer\NameSpace\{A8A91A66-3A7D-4424-8D24-04E180695C7A}] @="Devices and Printers" 3.
